EXPERIENCE

I write creative content, product copy, UX, and marketing collateral for Google Primer, an educational mobile app and web portal for small business owners and job seekers. I oversee illustrations and translations of app content localized for markets worldwide.

I've written humor essays, interviews, profiles, and crypto-collectible trading cards. I enjoy collaborating with editors, designers, and developers to create dynamic, interactive work. From 2015-2017, I selected and interviewed subjects for Splitsider's Follow Friday column.

I wrote, edited, and coded forecast jokes, horoscopes, and additional interactive content for Poncho, a weather app and multi-platform chatbot. I created a bot version of Andy Cohen's dog Wacha in a partnership with Bravo and 'Watch What Happens Live.'

I curated the Best Of The Web section on the front page of FunnyOrDie.com and created original humor articles and videos, both topical and evergreen. I contributed jokes, acted and improvised in, and directed various videos, photoshoots, and more.

I published content to social media and event pages and assisted in directing and promoting public programming, including a panel event of my own design. I created a podcast from recorded event audio and edited, published, and promoted it on social media.

I advanced the national Fall 2012 tour for artist Kishi Bashi. I updated social media and websites for artists including Lou Reed and WHY?, made travel arrangements for artists and managers, and filed expense reports.

As part of the production team for concerts and events, I arranged hospitality for talent, facilitated equipment load in and load out, managed ticket booth and will call, and edited promotional videos to advertise upcoming shows.

I published content to The Onion and A.V. Club websites. I recorded, collected, and edited video, podcasts, and images; contributed articles; and moderated comments, Twitter analytics, and other site statistics.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

I'm an organizing member of a Black-led community project working to ensure access to affordable fresh food for low-to-moderate income longterm Black residents of Central Brooklyn.

I supervised an afterschool computer lab in a Bushwick art gallery and community space.

I coached four- and five-year-old soccer for two seasons.
